

Tupu. A silver-plate embossed brooch. Ornamented with a design of a double-headed eagle surrounded by floral designs (18th century).

Tupu. Silver spoon brooch. Burin decoration with ornamentation of Hispanic art from the South Andean region (19th century).

Tupu. Colonial silver spoon brooch decorated with a peacock design (19th century).

Tupu. A silver brooch ornamented with a design of a double-headed eagle surrounded by floral designs (18th century).

Tupu: Jewellery made of silver and stones.

Its use extends from the Andean south. After the rebellion of the Inca Tupac Amaru II (1780), the Spanish laws forbade any distinctive of the ancient Empire of the Incas, however, many of these pins were preserved (18th-19th century).

Campaniform jar of solid silver. Decorated with incised vegetal designs (18th century).

Silver serving bowl. A luxury item for table service. Decorated on its legs and handles (19th century).

Silver scribe. Composed of a tray and a central shaft, profusely ornamented and containers for pen and ink. Many of these pieces had a bell to call for service (first half of the 18th century).